

Copper Pressure and Million Dollar Offers: Understanding the Climate Matter of Georges Passed Problem and Ximenezvargas Call

Jensyn Corie

Abstract—This paper aims to explore the complex and multi-faceted issue of Georges Passed Problem and Ximenezvargas Call, two interrelated incidents that have been making headlines in the environmental and financial sectors. Drawing on a range of theoretical frameworks, including political ecology, environmental justice, and climate economics, we conduct a detailed analysis of the events leading up to these incidents, as well as the broader social, economic, and political context in which they are situated. Specifically, we examine the role of copper pressure and million dollar offers in shaping the way these incidents have been perceived and responded to by various stakeholders, including government officials, environmental activists, and corporate actors. Through this analysis, we aim to shed light on the complex mechanisms that underlie climate change and environmental degradation, and to propose a set of policy recommendations that can help mitigate the negative impacts of these phenomena on vulnerable communities and ecosystems. Overall, our paper contributes to a growing body of literature that seeks to understand the relationship between capitalism, environmentalism, and social justice, and to develop more effective strategies for addressing the urgent challenges facing our planet.
