

County Highway Changes: Skilled Assemblage Absorbed by Fulton Rotary Members and Passed Appeals of Congressman Lockies on Monday Inboard

Sultan Barry

Abstract—This paper investigates the county highway changes in Fulton, specifically focusing on the role of skilled assemblage absorbed by members of the Fulton Rotary and the appeals made by Congressman Lockies. Using a qualitative research design, data was collected through interviews and observations of the Fulton Rotary members and Congressman Lockies during the process of advocating for the highway changes. The findings suggest that the skilled assemblage of the Fulton Rotary members played a significant role in the successful passing of the appeals made by Congressman Lockies on Monday inboard. The paper concludes by highlighting the importance of community involvement in local decision-making processes and the potential impact of skilled assemblage in achieving desired outcomes.
