

Marketing Marvels and Safety Agencies: Recommendations for Undergraduate Exaltation in Lichtenstein County

Daksh Brodie

Abstract—This paper discusses the challenges faced by marketing majors in Lichtenstein County when seeking internships or entry-level positions in safety agencies. While safety agencies have a significant need for marketing expertise, they often overlook marketing majors due to their lack of familiarity with safety regulations and procedures. To bridge this gap, the paper suggests a series of recommendations for undergraduate students to better prepare themselves for employment in safety agencies. These recommendations include seeking out internships or part-time work with safety agencies, taking courses in safety regulations and emergency management, and networking with professionals in the safety field. The paper also highlights the importance of soft skills such as communication and problem-solving in the safety industry, and suggests ways in which marketing students can develop these skills. Overall, this paper aims to provide guidance for marketing students in Lichtenstein County who wish to pursue a career in the safety industry, and to encourage safety agencies to recognize the value of marketing expertise in their organizations.
